

S2

WORLD WIDE SUCCESS

The S2 is already proving to be a huge success throughout the world, with orders being placed before it even went into production, we have now seen some of the very first S2's out in the marketplace which is proving to enhance the GB SOLO reputation for being the World leader for Hands Free thermal imaging.

Making the ultimate product range is never easy and as any development team will tell you, there's always room for improvement and with new technology it's hard to keep ahead of the market. This is why the GB SOLO development team are constantly working towards the ultimate product range and even though the S2 hasn't even been out a year, they are already working on upgrade features which will be available in the early part of 2008.

The upgrade features can be integrated into any S2, new or old, to allow the user to have an ultimate piece of equipment which is designed for them, with features they need to do their job.

Just a few of the features which will be available are:

- Integrated Internal Battery
- Setting Local Time
- Image Capture

The S2 is demonstrating to be a huge success with Fire Brigades, Navy's, Oil Companies, Search & Rescue and MOD across the world and with 2008 set to see some new products and developments from GB SOLO, the opportunity is endless for them to further increase their customer base and succeed in having the ultimate product range available today.

S2

STEALS THE SHOW

They went, they demonstrated and they stole the show.

In December 2007 GB SOLO and Resmar Ltd partnered and exhibited side by side at the Lima Maritime Show, Langkawi, Malaysia.

The event was a huge success with Admirals and Captains heading straight for the S2 once they had it in their sights.

This was the first public appearance of the new S2 and it proved to be an outstanding success, so much so that meetings were set up at the show for demonstrations in 2008.

James Brooks of GB SOLO said "With this type of response from the first show exhibiting the new S2, GB SOLO are looking forward to having this impact again with their agents in 2008 at exhibitions all over the world".
